

Regional Brevet Administrator Applicant Packet

RBA Application Deadline

RUSA must receive applications using these deadlines:

- August 1, for an applicant planning to organize ACP-sanctioned brevets or flèches the next year;
- At least three months prior to the first planned event, for non-ACP-sanctioned (RUSA domestically sanctioned) events.
- Any application to take over as RBA for an existing series must follow the succession procedures and timetables described in the RBA Procedures.
- New RBAs are typically restricted to organizing a 200k and a 300k their first year.

Application Packet

Submit application to the current RBA Liaison listed on the RUSA website. Include the following:

- this document;
- when proposing a new region, documentation of contact with RBAs adjacent to the proposed region informing them of intent to start a series. This includes RBAs located within 250 miles of all proposed start locations;
- maps indicating the route plus start, finish, intermediate controls, and possible secret controls for at least two rides (e.g., a 200k and 300k);
- example cue sheet for at least one ride.

Membership Requirement

You must be a RUSA member in good standing when you apply to become an RBA and must maintain your membership while an RBA.

Knowledge of Rules

Be sure that you are very familiar with the RBA Procedures Manual, Rules for Riders, and the Rules for Organizer located in the RBA area of the web site. You should also study the pages relating to becoming an RBA in the RUSA Handbook.

Experience

It is not necessary to have ridden brevets to put on quality events, but it helps to have the input of a few experienced randonneurs as you design your events. The RUSA Board of Directors can also help with advice via e-mail or phone calls. If you can, working at another RBA 's brevets will greatly speed up your learning process and help you decide if this is something you want to pursue. The RUSA Board of Directors looks very favorably upon prospective RBAs who take the time to travel to other brevets to learn the ropes. Having another RBA as a mentor during your first year will be a great asset too.

Computer Access

You must have, maintain and use a reliable e-mail address for receiving correspondence from RUSA and riders. E-mail will also keep you in touch with other RUSA RBAs. Access to a computer is also required as results submission occurs via the website. RUSA expects prompt notification if your address, phone number, web page or e-mail contact information changes.

Application Process

After submitting your application, it takes about 4-6 weeks for RUSA to approve new RBAs. During this time, the Board may request additional information about your proposed routes, your relationship with your club, your ability to obtain insurance and other input that will help it make a decision about your abilities and commitment.

Your first year as RBA

If your application is approved, you will be on a provisional status for the first year. Provisional RBAs are typically restricted to organizing 200km and 300km events. If these initial events have gone well, you may petition the Board to schedule additional events that year, if you'd like. At the end of your first year, the RUSA Board of Directors will convene to assess your performance. If all has gone well, you will be given full status, allowing you to offer a full series of events to riders in your region.

What's expected of RBAs

RUSA is committed to building a randonneuring program with consistent yearly results (as opposed to a program that is active only in PBP years). To ensure this, an RBA applicant must agree to organize at least one 200km or longer brevet each year.

RBAs are expected to meet the published deadlines for placing events on the international calendar or RUSA's domestic events calendar. Dates on the international brevet calendar cannot be changed once they have been sent to ACP in mid-October. There is more flexibility in changing dates for domestic events and scheduling new ones throughout the year – five weeks advanced notice is required.

Organizing your events under the auspices of a local club has its benefits. You will have a steady source of volunteers, and advertising in the club newsletter. Involving other club members in the process of event organization is recommended; there will be someone else ready to take over your position. You may set up your own club exclusively for randonneur events but it is more work to do so. That said, the preponderance of brevet regions are now sponsored by clubs set up specifically for randonneuring, ranging from the largest region in the US to some very small ones.

All RBAs are covered under RUSA's liability coverage insurance policy. No paperwork is required. Coverage is provided automatically based on results submitted for each event. This covers all riders on your events calendared on the RUSA calendar. A small fee is assessed for each rider who is not a RUSA member on events except for Populaires, to cover their costs.

RUSA must be included as indemnified from fault on your rider entry waiver. If you must cancel or reschedule a brevet, you must notify RUSA immediately by phone or e-mail. Otherwise, you are expected to put on the brevet, even if just one rider enters. That lone rider may need your brevet to qualify for some longer event such as PBP or BMB.

It is vital that RBAs process brevet results promptly and correctly. Be sure you understand the results submission process and how you will manage it for your region. Will you have the energy after each event to carry out this important task? Correct brevet results handling after each event is essential to keep your RBA status.

Regional Brevet Administrator Application

A completed application is required by all prospective RBAs, including those who wish to assume RBA duties from a retiring RBA.
